Q: Get data from several related models rails I have the following models: User(has_many :messages) Message(belongs_to :user) and I want to get all the messages from a specific user. Right now I have the following code to get all the messages. @user = User.find(params[:id]) @messages = @user.messages What if I want to get the messages from a specific user but have other fields in there too? How could I make it? A: You can use includes @messages = @user.messages.includes(:user).all or eager load @messages = @user.eager_load(:user).messages Here's what happened next. At a young-adult book signing in Washington, D.C., on April 5, 2018, Kandel offered to share a “personal secret.” In it, he promised to talk candidly about his own sense of powerlessness. There are many dimensions to the success of The Inner Lives of Animals, Kandel concluded. But the book's only real author, he said, is the reader: “So whatever you are going to do, think about this — and I have said that to other writers and I am not sure if they listened.” ... Kandel sometimes seems to be there with all his senses, as if he has just stepped out of the main text of The Inner Lives of Animals and is still adjusting to the argument. There are moments of pathos, such as when Kandel writes about the friendship of one of his heroes, the scientist Thomas Huxley, who apparently felt he was “more sheep than sheep dog.” [Kandel] can be full of regrets for the past: The Center for Advanced Holocaust Studies was launched as a tribute to his father, who had worked in the camps as a prisoner-of-war interpreter and survived. But there are signs he has thought of the future. Kandel's book is dedicated to his son, Max,

I would like to return a string and have it used as a parameter within my scope: Console.WriteLine(strWithParameters(foo, bar).ToString()); Where strWithParameters accepts a string and returns a bool (just an example). Currently, the only way I can see is to use a class that does the work: Func getSomeVal= () => "blah"; if(someCondition) { Console.WriteLine(getSomeVal().ToString()); } But, what I would like to do is store the function somewhere in the namespace so that I can then call it: Console.WriteLine(strWithParameters(getSomeVal(), bar).ToString()); And so in this example, the getSomeVal() would not take any parameters, just return its return value as a string. Is there a way to do this, or is that not possible? A: Just create a local class and call the constructor, but it is just a waste of code: class LocalFunc { public LocalFunc() { Console.WriteLine("hello"); } public T Execute() { return "hell"; } } Console.WriteLine(LocalFunc()
