Silent Decent is a first person horror game focused on atmosphere, story and puzzle elements. You are trapped in Purgatory. You have 3 hours to find and locate the man who's soul is trapped there. You are the only one who can save his soul. It's your job to find his body and take it to the Soul Sanctuary where you can save his soul. What do you mean it's dead? As you walk around you encounter multiple enemies that are not afraid to pull out their guns and shoot you. The story in the game is loosely based on real life events and the setting the game takes place in is inspired by you can't really see the world behind you. As you move about the world your eyes are sighted only on the walking path ahead of you. The following characters are based on real people and are fictitious: Samuel Harris: a man who entered the afterlife by suicide. Father James Francis: a priest who claims that he is in Purgatory on mission for God. Sarah Gallow: a reporter who finds the priest on his deathbed, and tries to figure out the truth behind his story. What makes it so scary? The world of Silent Decent is rich in detail and lush with atmosphere. The puzzles in the game are designed to have deep and interesting mechanics and story behind them. The enemies in the game are: Ghosts: they are basically a form of man made emotions, they can leave your body and wander around the world and set themselves to your location. Purgatory Paranoia: your view of the world around you is constantly changing as you move. You cannot see what is real and what is not. Zombies: Their senses are heightened and amplified. Angry Golf Features Key:

Adopt an infinite amount of scenario types:

CMX's game engine can be modified as needed, so you can use it as a basic game framework, and then fill in the blanks to suit your needs. You don't need to worry about how to build the scene if you can't find something that suits your needs.

Implement original in-game transition effects:

CMX supports several delay effects - like fadein/fadeout, scale in/out, collision with other objects- in order to make the game more realistic and engaging for players, and also make your gameplay more interesting.

Hundreds of graphic components, materials, and actors (with many more to come, we are always adding new components such as trees, graphics, holographic stuff, etc.) can give you infinite possibilities for your scenarios.

Hundreds of art pieces (with many more to come, we are always adding more artworks such as pictures, cityscapes, mansion homes, etc.).

Global lighting effect (set by camera based on position):

This is always in real-time (no step-by-step/frame-by-frame effects)

Protecting the player from bitmap file limits :

CMX supports a lot of graphic formats (including bitmap, jpg/jpeg, tga and more...) and allows for you to create graphic contents that don't fall within any of the common bitmap limits.

High-end scripting possibilities (Very flexible and powerful)

City Scenes

Here you will find your next adventures and voyages around the cities! We are adding more and more city scenes, and also terrain blocks for holding additional treasures or entities.

The forest

CMX's forest is a lot of fun. There are a lot of available

Lost God: Deep Silver has announced that it has begun pre-loading the day-one edition of The Surge, the new survival horror action/RPG from Frau Development. The game is scheduled to launch in early 2018. The Surge is an exciting survival horror action game with RPG elements. You play as a true modern-day hero, forced into a fight for survival against an unknown and relentless enemy. You must make use of your arsenal of weapons, environment and equipment to survive, to stay alive, and to eventually discover the true powers of this new world. Key Features: Deep world. Defy the laws of nature and delve into an atmospheric and exotic world full of mysterious forests, cavernous underground biomes and expansive procedurally generated cities. Fight on foot or embrace combat with your gear. Fight the enemy, rip out their eyes and tear them to pieces with your bare hands. But only if you have to. Use your gear to survive. Wear your environment and your armor against your foes. Face enemies in hand-to-hand combat and survive their gory attacks. Solve puzzles with your tools. Collect and craft powerful items using other items, creating new ones in the process. Expanded inventory. With hundreds of items to find, a steadily growing list of enemies to fight, and a world full of secrets, exploration in The Surge is not just about finding your way out but about finding the best way to get through it. The Surge is being developed by Frau Development and is inspired by the works of H.R. Giger. The Surge is a scary survival horror action game inspired by the works of H.R. Giger. In a world overrun by monsters, you are sent out to explore, find food, weapons, armor and supplies. Survive in this post-apocalyptic world. Learn to bend the laws of nature in order to survive. The Surge is being developed by Frau Development, the same team that brought us the beloved SCUMM series of games and includes the combined experience of respected technical experts in various fields. The game is being published by Deep Silver, one of the world's biggest publishers of entertainment products.

What's new:

I've been absent for a few weeks. Maybe I'll just pretend this is 2008, and offer a career update once or twice a month until I've had to scrap everything because I've exhausted all the creativity and attention span capable of actually existing in this world... possibly. I started a new job this past week (it was all but impossible for me to spend an hour or so at the plant to start shaving day). I'm just settling into the routine, as it was much harder to switch than I'd anticipated. But all is well. I'm ready to start work on the new job from home soon. Maybe it'll be possible for me to start working on Shaving Day again soon. Still, though. I don't think I've had an epiphany, or something else equally revolutionary and inspirational has happened, but just as I'm dealing with lack of productivity and creativity, something very troubling has happened. I've been under an evil spell, and it's still not over. I have the overwhelming urge to do another short story for Critique in the weeks and months to come. But nothing else has really clicked. For now, though, here is a story I wrote back in April 2008. It's not necessarily related to Shaving Day in any way. It tells a story that I needed to hear. It made me cry. A lot. There may be a sequel. But for now, you should read it. The Wretched Void

“There’s no tea in this cauldron,” Nicholas slurred. “I can’t just make tea out of damn terror and tell myself it’s tea.” His voice quavered, and his words were forced. “There’s no tea in this cauldron?” Carol repeated. She clamped her hand down on his shoulder from across the table. She clenched her jaw. “There’s no tea in this cauldron?” Nicholas shook his head. “No tea,” Carol said again, empty. “There’s no tea in this cauldron.” Nicholas looked up, startled to hear her voice. He leaned back in his chair. “Sweetheart, calm down,” he began soothingly. “What are you talking about? There can’t be no tea, there’s no tea in the cauldron because this
