The game is based on the fantasy novel of the same name by Kyohei Nanami (published by Yen Press). "Tarnished Prince" is licensed by Yen Press, and the author gave his consent to the game as well as the character design. With the publication of the novel, Eorzea: The Vanishing Darkness, A Realm Reborn and the Llandra Arc come to a close. In January 2018, a new expansion will begin, the second major expansion of A Realm Reborn named to Final Fantasy XIV: Shadowbringers. If you have not yet played the game, now's the perfect time to get started! The first expansion, which launched in December 2014, saw the level cap increase to level 70 for all classes, and its first major content update, The Ring of the Planes, launched in September 2015. There were six new areas added in The Ring of the Planes: the Plane of Earth, the Plane of Fire, the Plane of Shadow, the Plane of Lightning, the Plane of Water, and the Plane of Wind. There were four major new story missions, the "Fire on the Horizon", "Ice and Iron", "Song of Elhima", and "Waking Dreamer", and three major new raid dungeons, "Ailward Crystal", "The Raze", and "Awakened Vanille". The second major expansion, which launched in August 2016, saw the level cap increase to level 90 for all classes, and it also added the new jobs: Gladiator and Dragoon. New areas were added, including the new Secret of Niuzao, the Plane of Earth's sublevels, and the new main missions, "The Final Battle" and "Oath on Aether". The new raid dungeons included the new fractal, "Soulwater", and the new major story missions included "Fractals and Strange Tales". The second major content update, Lightning in a Bottle, added the new square, "Levistone", the new adventure area, "Sanctum", and new quests. The third major expansion, which launched in April 2017, saw the level cap increase to level 100 for all classes, and it introduced new jobs, the change to the Class System, new subclasses, and new systems, such as the new duality system. The new major story missions included "The Hunt" and "L'Cie aux Jeux", the new raid dungeons included "Evelakana", and the
