All Game Controllers and Placement: Use a keyboard or gamepad with a mouse pointing device (an XBox 360 controller with a USB adapter will also work). Gameplay Features: Day of Heroes does not have buttons on your gamepad or controller. It has a keyboard or gamepad, and it's up to you how you want to use it. The default layout is designed for keyboard and mouse, and we've included a good number of easy-to-use hotkeys on the keyboard that allow you to quickly switch between layers or manage your keys. With such a vast interface, a gamepad, if used, should be in your hot-zone, and we've included a secondary bindable button for easy switching. If you'd like to use your gamepad, we've included support for Xbox 360 controllers and controllers using a USB adapter. After completing a tutorial scenario, you will have access to the minigame menu and three web-based training modules. Customizable options will allow you to control the number of players in the scenario, the number of battlepacks (scenarios), and the number of days before the game starts. Both the tutorial and web-based training modules are an excellent tool to quickly get you up-to-speed.
