This is a song composed by Raghupati

Swamy to Swami. It is said that Raghupati Swamy sang this song for approximately three hours. At the end of which, he had tears in his eyes and the back of his throat was sore. Swami was smiling all the while. This, of course, is not supported by any information whatsoever on the matter. This song is by the great musician, composer, singer and poet G.V. Iyer. His musical compositions are still best remembered for the songs "Channe, Channe" (1932), and "Moomalu Marayi" (1943). Iyer is also credited with bringing into mainstream Carnatic music some of the popular ragas and stylistic features from folk music.
